PROFILE

As a skilled UI/UX designer and web developer, my journey in design began with courses at LaGuardia Community College and Queens College, sparking a deep interest in both graphic and web design. I've self-taught my way through Figma and the essentials of UI/UX design, fueled by a lifelong passion for graphic design. My technical skills stretch across full-stack development and responsive design, allowing me to merge visual creativity with practical web functionalities. My background in leadership and problem-solving, developed in various settings, strengthens my collaborative spirit in team projects.

PROJECTS

myFlix is a movie wiki platform that allows users to explore and save their favorite movies. In developing its core system for managing movie data, I ensured user-friendly access and cross-browser compatibility.

Additionally, I crafted two versions of the myFlix website, one with React for dynamic interaction and another with Angular and TypeScript, showcasing my versatility in creating accessible, engaging, and cross-browser compatible web interfaces.

Chat App

Chat App was created to allow users to simultaneously message, send photos, and their locations to one another via mobile device or computer. Users can also view chat logs even while offline. I built 'Chat App' with React Native and the Gifted Chat library.
